How Online Volunteers Support Emergency Response in the Region and Globally?

Nepal

Data and GIS Mapping of Earthquake-affected Communities

Within hours following the 2015 Nepal earthquake, Online Volunteers (14) supported response efforts by GIS mapping of earthquake-affected communities, collecting & classifying tweets and images for damage assessment, needs analysis of affected regions, supporting coordination of immediate relief services.

Fiji

Tackling COVID-19 in Small Island Developing States

In the Pacific, Online Volunteers supported the UNDP Accelerator Lab Pacific in Fiji during the COVID-19 pandemic. They conducted research on the COVID-19 response in Small Island Developing States (SIDS) in the Pacific region, developed materials to share best practices on dealing with the pandemic and designed digital transformation maps to capture and understand its impact.

Ukraine

Supporting Emergency Response

More than 200 Online Volunteers supported several UN entities in their emergency response in Ukraine through innovative projects and tasks, such as creating emergency web pages and chatbots, mapping shelters and reconstruction initiatives.

Türkiye

Improving health governance in low- and middle-income countries

A team of Online Volunteers supported the Istanbul Regional Hub of the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP) with research, translation and economic modelling to enable the prevention and control of non-communicable diseases (NCDs) across low- and middle-income countries. The volunteers developed the COVID-19/NCD Vulnerability Index, which examines vulnerability due to chronic diseases and risk factors that drive them.
