Transportation in Yaoundé can be done by taxi, although it is recommended to call private taxis rather than street taxis for security reasons. The security situation in the city of Yaoundé is partially satisfactory, although it should be noted that petty crime is the main threat in the city of Yaoundé. As the political capital and seat of the institutions of the Republic of Cameroon, Yaounde has a large Police and Gendarmerie presence. The main crimes concern burglaries in houses and armed robberies perpetrated by small groups of bandits. These criminal acts are mostly perpetrated overnight. In the country, travel to the Far North, North and Adamoua regions, as well as the South and North West regions, requires authorization from the UNDSS and is limited to official business travel.
