UN VOLUNTEER DESCRIPTION OF ASSIGNMENT

HNDR0000093--Associate External Relations and Reporting Officer

The United Nations Volunteers (UNV) programme is the UN organization that promotes volunteerism to support peace and development worldwide. Volunteerism can transform the pace and nature of development and it benefits both society at large and the individual volunteer. UNV contributes to peace and development by advocating for volunteerism globally, encouraging partners to integrate volunteerism into development programming, and mobilizing volunteers. In most cultures, volunteerism is deeply embedded in long-established, ancient traditions of sharing and support within the communities. In this context, UN Volunteers take part in various forms of volunteerism and play a role in development and peace together with co-workers, host agencies and local communities. In all assignments, UN Volunteers promote volunteerism through their action and conduct. Engaging in volunteer activity can effectively and positively enrich their understanding of local and social realities, as well as create a bridge between themselves and the people in their host community. This will make the time they spend as UN Volunteers even more rewarding and productive.

Living Conditions

Honduras is a tropical country in the middle of Central America, bordering to the North with the Caribbean Sea, to the south with El Salvador, to the west with Guatemala and to the East with Nicaragua. Due to its proximity to the equator, Honduras has a rainy season and a dry season. The climate varies from tropical in the lowlands to temperate in the mountains. The central and southern regions are relatively hotter and less humid than the northern coast. Rainfall is quite low to moderate with a patchy wet season from May to October. Low-land and coastal regions experience less of a temperature range with warmer nights and slightly less rainfall. Temperature in San Pedro Sula vary between 23º-35ºC, and in Tegucigalpa between 19º-25ºC.

Assignment Title: Associate External Relations and Reporting Officer

Organizational Context & Project Description

The Office of the UNHCR was established on 14 December 1950 by the UN General Assembly. The agency is mandated to lead and co-ordinate international action to protect refugees and resolve refugee problems worldwide. Its primary purpose is to safeguard the rights and well-being of refugees. It strives to ensure that everyone can exercise the right to seek asylum and find safe refuge in another State, with the option to return home voluntarily, integrate locally or to resettle in a third country (www.unhcr.org).

Honduras is characterized by a situation of internal displacement due to violence. It continues to be affected by high levels of violence, a challenge in terms of protection and assistance. Although forced displacement was recognized by the Government in 2013, an adequate response remains a challenge due to multiple flows of people within the same high risk zones (people in risk of displacement, IDPs, deportees, and the population as a whole); high risk cases unable to access international protection; a crisis of rule of law due to governance problems that inhibit an adequate response to human rights violations and widespread violence mainly, but not exclusively, in urban settings. Fragility is a general condition that affects all actors, the government, NGOs and the community based participatory mechanisms. This demands additional institutional strengthening. Poverty and inequality in the country adds to the sustained impact of violence, which despite the reduction in homicide rates—going from 86.5 / 100 thousand Inh in 2011 to 40.7 / 100 thousand Inh in 2018—violence continues to be a determinant of forced displacement. In 2019 there has been an increase in homicides of 4% in comparison to 2018 and the number of massacres has also increased (as of 4NOV 56 massacres with 194 victims have surpassed the numbers of 2018 (38 massacres with 130 victims). About 60% of homicide victims are under 30 years old. Added to the impact of violence new operational challenges have risen. Communities are put under further strain by the increasing number of persons deported from Mexico and the US, some of whom cannot return to their communities and become IDPs; as of 31OCT, a total of 95,857 Hondurans had been deported, an increase of 45% compared to the same period last year. A proportion of them face protection risks upon their return to their communities, requiring early identification, referral to protection alternatives within Honduras, and adequate reintegration mechanisms. Due to the impact of the Nicaraguan situation, more people with international protection needs come into Honduras. Compared to 2017, where 17 asylum applications were submitted, in 2018 they received 87 applications, mainly from Nicaraguan citizens. In 2019, 57 new asylum applications were received. It is important to continue working with national authorities to strengthen the legal framework for the right to seek asylum and procedural and operational capacities for refugee status determination. Overall this requires added focus to lines of work in international protection and further strengthening alternative protection mechanisms for Honduran nationals with protection needs. UNHCR has been redoubling its efforts to support the State in designing public policies that can prevent and respond to internal displacement, while developing protection networks by working with partners to provide protection alternatives as close to home as possible. Community-based protection processes needs to be strengthened as well. To this end, UNHCR has also promoted the MIRPS to foster responses to prevent displacement and improve access to protection and local integration. Through MIRPS, UNHCR has also work with government partners to enhance the capacity of the asylum system. UNHCR efforts towards the prevention of forced displacement, support to strengthening Government capacities for prevention, protection, assistance and solutions, community empowerment and inclusion of affected populations, all contribute to the achievement of SDG16, with additional impacts on SDGs 4, 5 and 11 due to the vulnerability levels of urban population. The operation in Honduras faces a great challenge in terms of the context complexities, the various populations of concern and their specific protection gaps and needs. Although the operation grew significantly in the last three years, challenges and areas of intervention have increased as well and starting 2020 Honduras has been upgraded to a full stand-alone Representation. This has brought additional challenges and responsibilities in terms of operational capacity, particularly in Programme management. The Associate External Relations and Reporting Officer position is located in National Office in Honduras (NOHON), with provision of support to Field Office San Pedro Sula (FOSAP), which in itself contains a considerable amount of tasks related to Donor relations, Fundraising and visibility, Reporting, etc. The incumbent is required to participate in various joint working groups, coordination mechanisms and other UN activities. The incumbent is expected to have a solid knowledge of external relations and fundraising, communications skills, report drafting, and corporate social responsibility. Excellent command of the Spanish language is needed to interact with Partners, local authorities, Government counterparts.
and other UN Agencies. Excellent English communication skills are also needed. UNHCR in Honduras counts with a committed and dynamic albeit young team of 35 staff members including both the Office in Tegucigalpa and the Field Office in San Pedro Sula. The incumbent will work under the direct supervision of the Representative, with close coordination with the UNHCR functional units.

Conditions of Service for International Specialist:

The contract lasts for the period indicated above with possibility of extensions subject to availability of funding, operational necessity and satisfactory performance. However, there is no expectation of renewal of the assignment.

A UN Volunteer receives a Volunteer Living Allowance (VLA) which is composed of the Monthly Living Allowance (MLA) and a Family Allowance (FA) for those with dependents (maximum three).

The Volunteer Living Allowance (VLA) is paid at the end of each month to cover housing, utilities, transportation, communications and other basic needs. The VLA can be computed by applying the Post-Adjustment Multiplier (PAM) to the VLA base rate of US$ 1,631. The VLA base rate is a global rate across the world, while the PAM is duty station/country-specific and fluctuates on a monthly basis according to the cost of living. This method ensures that international UN Volunteers have comparable purchasing... power at all duty stations irrespective of varying costs of living. The PAM is established by the International Civil Service Commission (ICSC) and is published at the beginning of every month on the ICSC website http://icsc.un.org.

For UN Volunteer entitlements, kindly refer to the link https://vmam.unv.org/calculator/entitlements

In non-family duty stations that belong to hardship categories D or E, as classified by the ICSC, international UN Volunteers receive a Well-Being Differential (WBD) on a monthly basis.

Furthermore, UN Volunteers are provided a settling-in-grant (SIG) at the start of the assignment (if the volunteer did not reside in the duty station for at least 6 months prior to taking up the assignment) and in the event of a permanent reassignment to another duty station.

UNV provides life, health, permanent disability insurances as well as assignment travel, annual leave, full integration in the UN security framework (including residential security reimbursements).

UN Volunteers are paid Daily Subsistence Allowance at the UN rate for official travels, flight tickets for periodic home visit and for the final repatriation travel (if applicable). Resettlement allowance is paid for satisfactory service at the end of the assignment.

UNV will provide, together with the offer of assignment, a copy of the Conditions of Service, including Code of conduct, to the successful candidate.
