Conditions de vie

Haiti is non-family duty station. The country is mostly mountainous, with a tropical climate. There are two rainy seasons (April- May and September-October). The hurricane season occurs from June to October and the average temperature is 25 degrees Celsius.

Health: UN Volunteers should be aware that they are exposed to a number of tropical diseases and should complete all medical formalities specified in the offer of assignment before travelling and bring with them sufficient and appropriate medical supplies. The following vaccinations are required and/or recommended prior to travel or upon arrival: typhoid, hepatitis A and B, yellow fever (required for travellers arriving), polio, rabies, tetanus/diphtheria, measles-mumps-rubella (MMR), malaria (prophylaxis is recommended for almost all parts of the country). UN staff has access to a medical clinic during office hours. There is also a selection of other health facilities available in Haiti, although for any major surgery or tests, you may be referred to the Dominican Republic or Miami.

Accommodation: Most UN Volunteers share houses/apartments in compounds. The UNV Field Unit assists in identifying an apartment or house, e.g. by arranging to visit houses that are currently available.

Security: Port-au-Prince is currently in Security Phase III and United Nations’ Security Clearance is required to travel to Haiti. UNVs are required to complete the two modules of the “Security in the Field” programme (Basic and Advanced) and to apply for security clearance on TRIP before starting the travel to Haiti. Security briefings will be provided by both UNDP Security Unit and UNDSS upon arrival.

Transport: There is no adequate public transportation in Haiti. The settling-in-grant paid at the beginning of the assignment includes a provision for temporary accommodation immediately upon arrival and local transportation needs during the course of the assignment.

Power and water: in most regions, including Port-au-Prince, both electricity and water is readily available. Most hotels have secured water and generators in the event of a power failure.

Food and diet: fresh food is seasonal but varied. Most staple foods are common in the supermarkets. Port-au-Prince has a selection of reasonably priced restaurants with good health standards. Restaurants can be found in the provinces as well, but the standard, the quality of food and the level of hygiene may be limited, while availability of certain foods may be limited or seasonal as well. The usual precautions need to be taken when eating outside the home: no salads, bottled water and all meat to be thoroughly cooked. Minor stomach upsets are almost inevitable at some stage.

Bank and Communication: Upon your arrival in Haiti, your account will be opened with a foreign bank. The currency of account is normally USD. You can purchase SIM card in Haiti from any of the leading telephone companies for your personal use; if required (on the basis of your working requirements), you can be issued an official SIM card by the mission (upon request of your respective section).

Clothing: Climate in Haiti is tropical – we suggest bringing some warm clothes for evening use (not frequently), rain coat or umbrella, sun glasses, hat, long sleeves clothes to be protected from sun and mosquitoes.

Haiti is a unique country; however it requires more stamina and commitment than elsewhere to make life comfortable and affordable. Therefore, flexibility and the ability and willingness to live and work in hazardous and harsh conditions involving physical hardship and little comfort are absolutely essential.

Détails sur l'Affectation

Conditions of Service for International Specialist:

The contract lasts for the period indicated above with possibility of extensions subject to availability of funding, operational necessity and satisfactory performance. However, there is no expectation of renewal of the assignment.

A UN Volunteer receives a Volunteer Living Allowance (VLA) which is composed of the Monthly Living Allowance (MLA) and a Family Allowance (FA) for those with dependents (maximum three).

The Volunteer Living Allowance (VLA) is paid at the end of each month to cover housing, utilities, transportation, communications and other basic needs. The VLA can be computed by applying the Post-Adjustment Multiplier (PAM) to the VLA base rate of US$ 1,631. The VLA base rate is a global rate across the world, while the PAM is duty station/country-specific and fluctuates on a monthly basis according to the cost of living. This method ensures that international UN Volunteers have comparable purchasing power at all duty stations irrespective of varying costs of living. The PAM is established by the International Civil Service Commission (ICSC) and is published at the beginning of every month on the ICSC website http://icsc.un.org.

For UN Volunteer entitlements, kindly refer to the link https://vmam.unv.org/calculator/entitlements
In non-family duty stations that belong to hardship categories D or E, as classified by the ICSC, international UN Volunteers receive a Well-Being Differential (WBD) on a monthly basis.

Furthermore, UN Volunteers are provided a settling-in-grant (SIG) at the start of the assignment (if the volunteer did not reside in the duty station for at least 6 months prior to taking up the assignment) and in the event of a permanent reassignment to another duty station.

UNV provides life, health, permanent disability insurances as well as assignment travel, annual leave, full integration in the UN security framework (including residential security reimbursements).

UN Volunteers are paid Daily Subsistence Allowance at the UN rate for official travels, flight tickets for periodic home visit and for the final repatriation travel (if applicable). Resettlement allowance is paid for satisfactory service at the end of the assignment.

UNV will provide, together with the offer of assignment, a copy of the Conditions of Service, including Code of conduct, to the successful candidate.

Supervision, induction and duty of care of UN Volunteers

UN Volunteers should be provided equal duty of care as extended to all host entity personnel. Host entity support to the UN Volunteer includes, but is not limited to:

- Introductory briefings about the organisation and office-related context including security, emergency procedures, good cultural practice and orientation to the local environment;

- Support with arrival administration including setting-up of bank accounts, residence permit applications and completion of other official processes as required by the host government or host entity;

- Structured guidance, mentoring and coaching by a supervisor including a clear workplan and performance appraisal;

- Access to office space, equipment, IT support and any other systems and tools required to complete the objectives of the assignment including a host entity email address;

- Access to shared host entity corporate knowledge, training and learning;

- Inclusion of the volunteer in emergency procedures such as evacuations;
- Leave management;
- DSA for official travel, when applicable;
- All changes in the Description of Assignment occurring between recruitment and arrival or during the assignment need to be formalized with the United Nations Volunteer Programme.
