

UN VOLUNTEER DESCRIPTION OF ASSIGNMENT

LSOR000038--Public Health Specialist

The United Nations Volunteers (UNV) programme is the UN organization that promotes volunteerism to support peace and development worldwide. Volunteerism can transform the pace and nature of development and it benefits both society at large and the individual volunteer. UNV contributes to peace and development by advocating for volunteerism globally, encouraging partners to integrate volunteerism into development programming, and mobilizing volunteers. In most cultures volunteerism is deeply embedded in long-established, ancient traditions of sharing and support within the communities. In this context, UN Volunteers take part in various forms of volunteerism and play a role in development and peace together with co-workers, host agencies and local communities. In all assignments, UN Volunteers promote volunteerism through their action and conduct. Engaging in volunteer activity can effectively and positively enrich their understanding of local and social realities, as well as create a bridge between themselves and the people in their host community. This will make the time they spend as UN Volunteers even more rewarding and productive.

Living Conditions

Lesotho is a landlocked country and entirely surrounded by the Republic of South Africa. It is 30,355 km² in size with a population of 2.2 million. About one quarter of the country has altitudes of between 1,500 and 2,000 metres. Because of its altitude, Lesotho remains cooler throughout the year than other regions at the same latitude. Most of the rain falls as summer thunderstorms. Maseru and surrounding lowlands often reach 30 °C in summer. However, due to current climate change conditions, the weather conditions keep changing such that there may be four seasons in one day at times. The rural highlands are less developed, and winters are severe with heavy snowfalls that often cut off the population from access to basic social services such as health.

Lesotho is a lower middle-income country whose economy is based on diamonds exported all over the world and water sold to South Africa, manufacturing, agriculture, livestock, and to some extent the earnings of Labourers employed in South Africa. About 40% of the population lives below the international poverty-line of US$1.25 a day. The constitution of Lesotho protects basic civil liberties, including freedom of speech, freedom of association, freedom of the press, freedom of peaceful assembly and freedom of religion.

Maseru is the capital and the largest city in the country with a population of approximately 500,000 people. Basic goods and services including health facilities, public transport, telecommunication and banking services and educational facilities are readily available. The main airport is King Moshoeshoe III about 15 km away from the city.

As this is a national UN Volunteer assignment, the UN Volunteer will be responsible for arranging his/her own housing and other living essentials.

Assignment Title Public Health Specialist

Organizational Context & Project Description

WHO is the directing and coordinating authority for health within the United Nations system. The organization uses a six-point agenda which seek to contribute to addressing global health related policy gaps. The mission of the WHO Lesotho Country Office is to promote the attainment of the highest possible level of health for all people living in Lesotho through collaboration with the government and other partners in health development and the provision of technical and logistic support to country programmes.

The current COVID-19 pandemic situation with established local transmission and spread in rural areas, there is need for immediate targeted action to contain the outbreak. The country has reported a cumulative total of 1,961 COVID-19 cases. The health system is faced with many challenges to effectively manage the outbreak of this magnitude. Human resource capacity within and outside the heather is constrained due to limited production and brain drain. The national outbreak response currently focuses on the public health interventions particularly those relevant to personal and hand hygiene, cough etiquette, hand shaking and social distancing. Community-based interventions are being rolled out through the existing community structures to assist districts in tailoring interventions to the local needs. However, there exist substantial human resource gaps for an effective outbreak response to be undertaken.

Development Partners currently supporting the national response include the UN, CDC, USAID, PEPFAR, World Bank, Global Fund, GAVI, CHAI, PIH, PSI. WHO plays a partner coordination role and provision of technical support to the Ministry of Health to prepare for, respond to and recover from emergencies with public health consequences, including through ensuring that the public is provided with as much relevant health information as possible, using different mediums of communication. WHO continues to work around the clock to provide technical assistance to the Ministry of Health to build capacity of healthcare workers and build a resilient health care system that can prevent, detect, and respond to infectious disease outbreaks.

Conditions of Service:

Note on novel coronavirus – COVID-19.

The rapidly changing nature of novel coronavirus COVID-19 has placed significant and increasing restrictions on the freedom of movement of people, even within countries. Such restrictions may affect the ability national UN Volunteers to begin their assignments at their assigned duty station or limit the ability to enter UN premises. Thus, UNV cannot guarantee assignments will proceed as normal.

Candidates for national UN Volunteer assignments requiring travel to the duty station may be exceptionally granted during this period alternative working arrangements to work from their place of recruitment until restrictions are lifted. Candidates for national UN Volunteer assignments may also need to begin their assignments remotely in cases where access to UN premises is restricted. These are decisions at the discretion of the host entity. Candidates proceeding to interview are recommended to discuss travel requirements, any restrictions, and possible alternative arrangements with the host entity. If selected, candidates should carefully consider the circumstances before
